Subject: (S/NF) Reaction to Clinton Draft Memoir

RELEASE IN PART 1.4(D)

All,

REVIEW AUTHORITY: Barbara Nielsen, Senior Reviewer

The FOIA office is under pressure to react quickly to a draft memoir by former SecState Clinton. See my review below here.

The questions are (1) do you share my concerns and how they are put? And (2) do you have the capability to quickly read the portions from here book to second-guess me (50 double-spaced and easy to read pages).

Our general guidance is to look only for compromises of security information, and not to second-guess opinions of former officials in reviewing memoirs. However, if you agree, at a minimum we could recommend that our suggestions be taken into account.

I'd appreciate a quick reaction. Neil Silver ext. 48308

Ethan,

This note summarizes our discussions of last week regarding the status of the review of the Clinton Book manuscript.

At last week's meeting we passed you a list which indicates the status of our review of each chapter of Secretary Clinton's manuscript. We have identified no national security/foreign relations issues in fourteen chapters. One chapter, relating to Iran, is pending.

We have also identified national security/foreign relations concerns in sections of three chapters. Based on our telephone conversation of Friday, we understand that you have already made the changes to the text that we have asked for; and that these Chapters no longer contain national security/foreign relation issues. When you have a chance, please provide for our records, copies of the pages where the text has been changed.

IPS identified five chapters containing sections with national security/foreign relations concerns insofar as they relate to Presidential communications. We have contacted Mary Ronan, Director, NSC Information Access Branch and will provide her copies of these chapters. We have provided Mary with your contact information and she will communicate with you directly with any recommended text changes. We understand that the entire manuscript will be forward shortly to the NSC/WH, (possibly to Ben Rhodes).

Please let us know if you have any additions/corrections to this summary.

Our best to Secretary Clinton and the Team as you head towards the finish line.

Peggy, Chuck and Alden gave me a verbal status on the Clinton Book yesterday. I then asked Chuck to put a status report together so I could forward something to you. Below is what he came up with.

We still may see the last two chapters, 24 and 25 (the pre-State years) but the Clinton Team wants to start sending materials to their publisher by 4/7 so I am not sure on the timing. We also heard that they will contact the WH on their own. John
